mirrors by Suzanne Cahill this volume presents a detailed catalogue of the extensive collection through high quality images and illustrations of the mirrors in their approximate chronological sequence. Volume II: A set of eleven scholarly essays goes further to investigate these mirrors as a study collection guided by the conviction that this particular constellation of mirrors may lead to substantive insights that cannot easily be obtained otherwise. The leading scholars who contributed to this volume used the materials in Volume I as a point of departure for explorations of topics of their own choice. The resulting diversity of the chapters is notable with coverage ranging from a discussion of Han mirror inscriptions as modular texts to an analysis of mirrors inlaid with mother of pearl. The findings are as novel and stimulating as they are preliminary.

Jue Chen's record of an ancient mirror is a study on the Gujing Ji, one of the few extant texts of the early Tang dynasty (618-907). Chuanqi Fiction presents concrete research on the textual history and close reading of the work against the background of detailed informational material regarding the historical careers of Wang Du and Wang Ji, as well as the intellectual context of Sui-Tang politics, philosophy, and religion. Based on Chen's analysis, it illuminates a broad range of fields: art history and the lore of medieval Buddhism and Daoism, the spiritual geography of China's sacred mountains, ancient Chinese medicine and occult arts, and other related topics. Like the text on which it is based, this study deals with a wide variety of seemingly disjointed elements, yet they all come together in a comprehensive view of the workings of Tang tales of the strange and traditional Chinese fictional and historical narrative in general, with their frequent adumbration of historical and religious implications beyond the specific episodes presented.
